

stopped to read their map. Every sentence belongs in its original order, every ending deserves to survive the journey onto paper. Passage 29A small book can hold a large journey. The river turned beside the garden, and the travellers stopped to read their map. Every sentence belongs in its

